ANNOUNCEMENTS.

I take this means of announcing myself as a candidate for County Court Clerk of Breathitt County, subject to the action of the Democratic party. If elected I shall, regardless of party affiliations, be your most obedient servant.
ALFRED RUSSELL.

Jett's Creek.

Bill Bryant, of Oakdale, was sent to the pen for one year. He was accused of robbing a store near Campton. Miss Isabel Allen is conducting a winter school at the Spicer church house near here. Miss Allen and Frances Wise are teachers. The gasoline boat of Mr. Burns, of Oneida, Clay county, passed up Middle Fork en route to Buckhorn. Mrs. Wm. Terry, of Turkey, visited Mrs. Bell Terry, Sunday. Edward Terry made a trip to Oakdale Saturday. Hence Short has a phone box in his dwelling house. Arch Glass, of Booneville, attended the sick child of Jeff Eversole on Cope branch. The child is very low with fever. Samuel Barrett visited the fair sex on Willow Shoal last week. Elisha Johnson, Jr., moved his old dwelling house Saturday about one hundred yards from where it set. He will now use it for a barn. Henry Hutson Johnson and Miss Celia Vires, both of Jett's Creek, were married at the home of John Little Sunday. Paul Woods is building a dwelling house on Bowman branch, near Oakdale. Brown Terry has been missed for about two weeks, and his friends can't hear of him any where. If any of the correspondents of The News have seen or heard of him, please report in next issue. C. Bryant and G. B. Woods went to Jackson Tuesday on business. Hello, Uncle Josh, the lightning rod agent, we have not heard from you since you left Jett's Creek. We would be pleased to have you visit us again. Wm. K. Terry went to Jackson Saturday on business. Paul Woods has been on the sick list for the past week. We would like for some one to start a winter school at this place. A. C. Crawford, of Cope Branch, has been on the sick list for the past week. BUMBLE BEE.

Herald.

Richard Herald made a trip to War Creek Sunday. Mrs. Wm. N. Terry, of Turkey, was the guest of B. H. Herald one day last week. Dan Cundiff, of War Creek, was at Herald on business a few days ago. Miss Ada Herald is visiting her sister, Mrs. Harlan Griffith for a few days. Richard Herald and wife will start in a few days for a visit in Wolfe county.

WOLFE COUNTY. Campton.

Circuit court ended Saturday at noon, having been in session for three full weeks. The merchants of Campton have preferred charges against the Mountain Central R. R. for charging excessive rates on freight. Isaac Miller has the foundation of his new store building on the south corner of Washington and Court street about completed. Elijah Pelfrey is doing the work for him. Robert Miller and J. E. Childers are also pushing work on their new store building on the northwest corner of Main and Washington. Al Dye, of Hazel Green, has this contract and has a Mr. Day and Frank Young assisting him in the job. In circuit court last week the suit of Mary E. Brown against John Stamper was decided in favor of the plaintiff; that of C. B. Terrell against Kelley Fuls in favor of the plaintiff; that of S. S. Shackelford against J. M. Brown & Co., in the plaintiff's favor; that of Rittenhouse vs. Harmon Swango, which was a suit by Rittenhouse to recover from Swango the one-half value of the improvements at Swango Springs, resulted in a verdict of $65.00 for plaintiff; the case of Harmon Swango against J. S. Rittenhouse, a suit for $5,000 damages for interference with Swango's rights in the springs, resulted in a hung jury. Steve Tutt, Jr., and Miss Beulah Congleton, the former the son of S. M. Tutt, of this county, and the latter the daughter of Judge J. W. Congleton of Lexington, were married at Jeffersonville, Ind., on Wednesday of last week. They arrived here Thursday evening and will make their home in this county. Their wedding was the conclusion of a romantic courtship of some six years. Hendrix Byrd who has been a guard at the State penitentiary at Frankfort during the past 15 months came up home Thursday to spend a few days with his mother, Mrs. Emily Byrd. He left for Frankfort Monday morning to take up his duties there again. Squire S. F. Allen will again assume charge of the Central Hotel some time next week. H. B. Huast, who has been proprietor for the past three months, will move back to his farm on Holly. S. H. Kash, of Hazel Green, was in town on business Monday.

OWSLEY COUNTY. Booneville.

Snow, slopy, mud, rain, and still it continues to rain, with a good tide in the river and thousands of logs and ties floating down to the market. Henry Holcomb, who has just recently returned from his second enlistment in the army, with his second honorable discharge, is now lying very low with pneumonia fever. R. W. Becknell has sold his interest in the firm of Becknell & Wilder and the firm of Wilder & Co. will continue the business at the old stand. The Presbyterians are viewing out a suitable location at this place to erect a college building and dormitory in the near future. The K. P. Lumber Co., of Le Rose, is temporarily suspending general work until March 1st in order to make repairs to their large mill, machinery, etc. Many laborers are now out of work. W. B. Bullock is soon to leave Frankfort to try to "lobby" through a bill before the legislature establishing the "Wheeler" line at the foot of the mountains to separate the mountains of Kentucky from Mr. Wheeler's section of the State, that now abounds with "night riders," tobacco barn burners, "tobacco plant bed scrapers and salters," and "white cappers" generally, which are as disgusting to the mountain people now as the mountain people were to Mr. Wheeler when he made his famous speech a few years ago and drew the line at the foot of the mountains. The people of the mountainous section of Kentucky are now willing that the line be drawn by Charles K. Wheeler at the foot of the mountains. In his speech against the mountain people some years ago he said: "We were not of his people; we did not act as they acted; we did not talk as they talked; we did not think as they thought," and in fact he said when we died we would not go to the same place they would go. Now time has proven that he was correct, for his people, for no other cause than that they cannot agree as to the manner of raising and handling in market their tobacco crops, have resorted to barn burning and the destruction of property, warehouses, etc., scraping, salting and destroying tobacco plant beds, taking men and inoffensive women from their homes in the night time and tying them to trees and whipping them as long as they have life in them, threatening and terrorizing the good citizens throughout the dark tobacco district, which covers a great portion of central and western Kentucky. Yes, we now are willing that this House of Representatives may establish Mr. Wheeler's line, for our good mountain people do not sanction such conduct, and if Joe C. S. Blackburn still persists in placing his stick of dynamite under any portion of Kentucky to blow it into hades, let him place it under Mr. Wheeler's side of the State.

YALLER BRITCHES.

W. O. Chénault, of Mt. Sterling, was here during the week looking after his real estate interest in this county.

THE CENTRAL POINT

Local Option Measure the Pivot on Which All Other Legislation Depends.

IN A STRUGGLE TO THE DEATH

The Senatorial Contest and the Liquor Bill Cannot Abide Together in the Halls of Legislation, and One Must Succumb to the Other, 'Tis Said in Informed Circles.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 11.—To an unbiased spectator it looks very much like the senatorial race and the county unit local option bill have come together in a struggle to the death. In other words, if the bill passes the legislature, the chances are that the senatorial deadlock will not be broken. If the bill is defeated, it may mean that someone will be elected senator. Everything is now being made subservient to the local option measure. It is the sun around which all the smaller planets are revolving. Without discussing the political features of the situation, there is no harm in telling the plain facts as to how the matter stands. The test votes taken in the house show that a large majority of the Democrats are for the bill and a large majority of the Republicans are against it. It is freely asserted that Governor Beckham's friends are working hard to have the bill passed and that Governor Bradley's friends are working just as hard to defeat it. It is practically conceded that a United States senator will not be elected until the county unit bill is disposed of one way or the other, for the reason that the few legislators that are willing to sacrifice everything to help the whiskey interests will not change their votes in the senatorial race until the fate of the county unit measure is settled. It is believed here that if the senatorial race was out of the way this legislature would pass a most striking vote by the people on an amendment to the constitution so that a vote state prohibition might be had three years from now. It is a pretty fight and the result is in doubt.

Senator Newman of Woodford county says that much dishonesty has grown up in the matter of giving short weights in packages or sacks of flour and meal. He introduced a bill in the senate some days ago to prevent this fraudulent practice, and the senate passed it almost unanimously. The bill provides that every package or sack of flour or meal shall have the correct weight of the package or sack printed on it in letters and figures large enough to be easily read, and a penalty is fixed for the violation of provisions of the law. It was stated in the debate on the bill that in many instances a sack of flour or meal purporting to contain twenty-four pounds really contained but nineteen, yet the purchaser paid for twenty-four pounds. Every housekeeper in the state who looks after her everyday purchases will be interested in this bill and thank the senator from Woodford for protecting them in this matter.

It is the general belief that too few legal hangings have been had in Kentucky in the past twenty years, but if a bill that is now before the legislature becomes a law there will never be another legal hanging in the state. In other words hanging is to be abolished and all criminals condemned to death will hereafter be electrocuted, as they are in New York and other states. The bill, which was introduced by Senator Mutt of Louisville, provides that all criminals condemned to death shall be electrocuted in the penitentiary at Frankfort, and does away with public executions, only a limited number of persons being permitted to witness the electrocution. This bill has already passed the senate and will likely pass the house without much opposition.

The same old bill to prohibit the playing of baseball on Sunday has been introduced this session and seems in a fair way to pass. This same bill has been introduced at every session for many years, but has always met with defeat. The house committee having the bill in charge has agreed to report it favorably, with an amendment which exempts cities of the first, second, third and fourth classes from its provisions. This amendment was agreed to on the ground that cities of the class named can furnish ample police protection at all games on Sunday and prevent any disorder or disturbance.

A fight is to be made to have the express companies, telegraph and telephone companies under the control of the state railroad commission and put them on the same footing as railroad companies as far as regulating rates is concerned. A bill of a similar character was introduced last session as to express companies, but for some reason it was smothered, although its author, Senator George, made a desperate effort to get it voted on. There has been much complaint as to the high and arbitrary rates charged by express companies for years, and according to the general expression of opinion the rates are getting higher and the companies less considerate of the rights of the public every year.

The fight is the present legislature to secure money with which to build first-class public roads in every county is making good progress, as the Rosworth-Wyatt bill has already passed the senate. This bill provides for taking a vote of the people on the question of amending the constitution so that state aid may be given to the counties for road purposes and further provide that any county may take a vote of the people as to levying a special road tax which shall not in any instance exceed 5 per cent of the taxable value of all the property in the county. The mountain counties are especially interested in this proposition, and if given the opportunity will vote almost solidly for such an amendment to the constitution. Some of the senators were afraid the counties might vote too large a debt on themselves and then have to repudiate it, as has been done as to the railroad debts in several counties in recent years, but twenty-seven senators voted for the bill while only eight voted against it. The few counties in the state that have good roads and have had them for many years do not appreciate or understand the difficulties encountered in traveling over counties that have nothing but mud roads, but public sentiment is aroused on this question, and it is almost a certainty that the Rosworth-Wyatt bill will pass and that the proposed amendment to the constitution will be voted by the people at the next election.

There seems to be no end to the new bills introduced, and strange to say, the best and most important bills seem to be coming in late. During the past week the following important ones have been introduced:

An act providing for the security of depositors in banks and creating a "bank depositors' indemnity fund" and providing regulations therefor.

An act providing for a two-cent per mile fare for passengers on all railroads in this state.

An act appropriating $100,000 for the erection of buildings on the state fair grounds.

An act to prohibit betting on horse races on any racetrack in this state, and an act to repeal the law creating the state racing commission.

An act to abolish the present board of prison commissioners and creating a new board of four members to be appointed by the governor, two members from each political party.

An act creating a state board of bank examiners, to consist of four members, two from each political party, to be appointed by the governor.

An act providing that the state board of control shall contain four members instead of three and two of them shall be selected by the governor from each political party. The bill does not propose to disturb the present members of the board, which has two Democrats and two Republicans on it. It provides that one more Republican shall be appointed at once and one of the board shall hereafter consist of two Republicans and two Democrats.

An act to prohibit the operation of "bucket shops" and to prevent speculation in margins and futures.

An act providing that where a regular circuit judge cannot sit in any case another regularly elected circuit judge shall try the case and the judge to try it shall be selected by the court of appeals.

An act providing that insurance companies shall pay a tax to the state of $4 on every $100 in premiums collected in Kentucky. The state now collects $2 on every $100 worth of premiums.

Somebody started a story that the state had been paying out too much money for the examination of insurance companies in the past few years and the rumor went so far that the senate passed a resolution asking the new insurance commissioner to report to the senate just how much these examinations had cost the state in the past twelve years, this period including the past four years, when so many insurance company scandals in New York had to be investigated. The commissioner's report showed that for the past twelve years the amount paid to special examiners and their expenses amounted to about $23,000, and of this amount about $18,000 had been paid out in the last four years, but the insurance companies themselves paid all this expense and in reality it cost the state nothing. The state insurance bureau has been an adjunct of the state auditor's office since its establishment nearly forty years ago, and the auditor appoints the insurance commissioner, but a bill has been introduced in this legislature providing that it shall hereafter be a separate department and that the senate shall elect the commissioner.

JOHN H. STUART.

A Rejected Claim.

An insurance broker got a request a few days ago for an immediate call upon one of his wealthy women customers.

"I've had a fire," she explained, "and I want you to make my claim at once. It is very imperative and is embarrassing to me until it is settled. You see my false teeth—such a beautiful set—my false cost me $25—I laid them on the dining table. My servant girl, so careless, picked up some papers, my teeth among them, and tossed all into the fire. And such lovely teeth, and I'd had them so long they just had become set to my palate perfectly and were worth to me twice what they cost, so I think you ought to get me $50 for them."

The claim is in the company's list of "not allowed," and the broker is "a horrid old thing."—New York Sun.

"Thought you said you had plowed that ten acre field?" said the first farmer.
"No. I only said I was thinking about plowing it," said the second farmer.
"Oh, I see. You've merely turned it over in your mind."

with his nerve tonic four years ago.

Elvin Newby, a lumberman, shot and killed his wife and then committed suicide at Valley View, Ky. Mrs. Newby had been up all night with a sick child and Newby is supposed to have killed her because breakfast was not ready when he came home. Mrs.
Newby was about 27 years of age,
and was a Miss Bingham, of Owsley county, before her first marriage a few years ago to Edward Campbell, who died.

A Feat in Local Jour- nalism.

We believe that we did last week
what has never been equaled before in local journalism. James Hargis was killed last Thursday afternoon after 3:00 o'clock and before 4:00 o'clock we had a good account of the tragedy printed in our regular edition and on the streets. The Breathitt News gives the news while it is news.

Ford's Mill Burns.

The mill and elevator in South
Jackson belonging to the Ohio Valley Tie Co. was burned Wednesday night. The fire was discovered shortly after ten o'clock, but had gained such headway that it was impossible to do more than save the lumber and other adjacent buildings. The loss is heavy and only partially insured.

U. S. Court for Jackson.

Congressman John W. Langley's bill authorizing the holding of a U. S. court at Jackson passed the House unanimously Monday.
It will probably pass the Senate in a few days and will be signed by the President and become a law. This will be of great advantage to our town and county and will save the government a great deal in mileage, etc. This is one of Mr. Langley's election promises and we congratulate him on his success.

Judge Riddell Dead.

Judge Robert Riddell died at his home in Irvine Tuesday night after about four weeks illness as a result of a fall on an icy porch.
He was about 75 years old and had been three times elected Circuit Judge and was Circuit Judge of this district at the time of his death. He had many friends throughout the district and had he lived he could have been the nominee of his party for re-election had he desired it. He has long been considered as one of the ablest jurists in this part of the State.

The Hargis Funeral.

The funeral of James Hargis was conducted at the grave yard at the old homestead Saturday by Rev. A. C. Cooper, of Magoffin county, assisted by Rev. J. H.
Hudson, of Noble. The remains were conveyed to the grave by wagon to the depot, thence on the L. & E. to K. L. & V. Junction, and thence on the narrow gauge road to the grave. The burial was conducted by the Masons and Jr.
O. U. A. M.'s in the presence of a large crowd.

It seems that he must have had some sort of a presentiment of immediate death, for while he was in Louisville a few weeks ago he selected his own coffin and ordered the company to hold it until ordered, and on Thursday evening
Mrs. Hargis wired the company to ship the coffin, which they did.

Sunday Sermons.

Bishop L. W. Burton will hold services at the Presbyterian church Sunday at 11 a. m. Everybody is invited to attend.

The minister will preach at the Christian church next Sunday morning and night at the usual hours. Morning subject, "The Greatest Desires of the Heart." Evening subject, "The Severity of Jesus." Everybody invited, especially the members of the church.
The minister would be pleased to see every member present.

Killed by O. & K. Train.

Stephen Crawford, Jr., was run over and killed by an east bound O. & K. train at Cannel City Wednesday. His remains were brought here Thursday and buried in the Little grave yard.

Court May Be Delayed.

Owing to the death of Judge Riddell, circuit court, which is scheduled to begin next Monday, may be delayed, as a Judge will have to be appointed to fill the vacancy. The Governor may, however, appoint a Judge in time to begin court at the regular term.

To Fill Unexpired Term.

At a meeting of the Republicans of Breathitt county, held in the town of Jackson, on Wednesday night, February 12, 1908, it was unanimously resolved that the Republicans of Breathitt county ask and petition the Governor of Kentucky to appoint J. Wise
Hagins, of Jackson, Ky., Circuit Judge of this district to fill the unexpired term of Judge Robert Riddell, deceased, and to use all honorable means to secure his appointment.

THE POLO GAME

Witnessed By a Large Crowd at the Rink.

The Jackson Amusement Co.
entertained the patrons of the rink Tuesday night with a polo game between the Beattyville and Jackson teams. The game, which was witnessed by the largest crowd that ever assembled at this popular amusement resort, was exciting from the start, and the playing of the teams aroused great enthusiasm among the adherents of both teams. The visitors won it by hard playing. Score 4 to 0.

THE LINE-UP.

Beattyville	Jackson.
Honaker	Combs
Smith	Blanton
Pendergrass	Case
Howerton	Gose

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vaughan
and Mrs. T. J. Barr, of Cannel
City, were the judges.

The contest between the best and most graceful couple was won by Eugene Lyon and Miss Bertha Mae Hoskins.

The speed race between Arvill Gose, of Jackson, and Charles Pendergrass, of Beattyville, was won by Gose.

The entertainment was much complimented and it was a scene that will long be remembered.
There were many visitors here for the occasion, who added much to the evening's pleasure. Altogether it was a lovely success and very much enjoyed.

CANNEL CITY VISITORS.

The O. & K. ran a special train

Waived Examination.

Beech Hargis, charged with the murder of his father, was brought before Judge Taulbee Monday morning for the purpose of having an examining trial. On motion of Judge D. B. Redwine, his attorney, the examination was waived and he was held without bail to answer any indictment that may

Notice to Booze Fiends.

To all alike: This is written in the best of humor. However I want it distinctly understood that I mean every word that I express.

There are some of the neighbor boys and friends who have been in the habit of going down the creek and tanking up on booze and then starting for my place to pass their dreams and sober up. I want to tell them that they are all welcome when they come to my place sober and like gentlemen, and that no one who is drunk and disorderly has any welcome at my house and among my children.

Your business is none of mine;
but it is my business and my duty to protect my home and my family, and that I intend to do.

Very truly your friend,

Farmers in the Southwest are getting rich on the increasing value of their farms.

Not so very many years ago Illinois and Iowa land sold for ten dollars an acre. More recently Nebraska lands sold at that price.
Look at them now. What makes them so high? The land is no better than it was then. What caused the price to go up? People—nothing but people, and lots of them. History will repeat itself in the Southwest—only it will not take so long. The Southwest is growing very fast; much faster than any other section of the United States. The land in the Southwest is just as good as Illinois, Iowa or Nebraska land. But there is more land than there are people, that's the only reason it's so cheap. How long do you think it will take the Southwest to get as many people to the farm acre as Illinois or Iowa have? Just about five years—ten at the very outside.
When that time comes you will have to pay just as much for land in the Southwest as you would pay in Illinois or Iowa.

Why not buy your farm in the Southwest now—when you can get it cheap—cheap enough for you to get a big one? A few years hence you will be looked upon just as the man who owns 640 acres in Illinois is looked upon to-day—as a substantial, well-to-do, leading member of your community.

The low rate excursions via the Rock Island-Prisco Lines the first and third Tuesdays of each month, offer you an opportunity to see the Southwest at very little cost.
Take this opportunity to get away from the cold for a few days, and enjoy the delightful weather the Southwest farmer is having.

Let me send you some interesting literature about the Southwest to read these long evenings. Our books about Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas and Oklahoma are full of photographs and reliable information—the very information a man thinking of settling in one of these states ought to have. I'll send you absolutely free any of these books you want.

The Rock Island-Prisco Lines have no lands for sale and are only interested in getting good, energetic settlers for the lands uncultivated along the Southwest. The agent for every help possible is freely given.
Write today and let us help you find a better location.

Under the Third Degree.

How "Mental Suasion" Forced a Prisoner in the Tombs to Confess That He Had Strangled His Young Wife Out of Pure Wantonness.

Ghastly, queer and far beyond the many strange experiences that strike deeply into a newspaper reporter's memory is that which came to me in the Tombs on Christmas eve, says Charles Somerville in the New York Journal.

Giuseppe Capuzzo, or Charley Davis, had been facing trial for the murder of his wife, Carl Fischer Hansen, the young society man and lawyer, had himself assigned to defend the man and undertook to bear all expenses that might come of seeing that the wretched man got a just trial.

When court adjourned on the morning before Christmas it was apparent that the state had fastened guilt on Davis and that only one result could be looked for—a verdict sending the man to death in the electric chair.

"I believe the man is possessed of insane impulses to kill women," said the lawyer to me, "although up to this time he has steadfastly denied his guilt. He says he is the wrong man—clothes show they were only made a year or so."

This was not a fact, as far as the lawyer knew, but Capuzzo swallowed hard. The shrug of his shoulders then was half an admission of guilt.

"A woman heard you in that room when you murdered Sophie Koehrer. She heard you go out. She went to the window. She saw that it was you who left the house."

Capuzzo's delicate hands were clapping at his disordered hair. Suddenly he said:

"They going to kill me? Yes? I get killed?"

"Unless you tell me the truth—all the truth. I think myself you do not deserve death. I think you have something wrong in your head. Perhaps I can tell the judge so, and perhaps he will let you go to prison for life instead of having you killed in the big chair."

After that was a silence of from three to five minutes—a silence so in-that he never knew this woman in his life. But the evidence furnished by the state shows only too plainly his guilt. He will be sent to his death unless he tells me the truth about himself. I am going now to tell him so."

"I CHOKED HER—CHOKED HER—CHOKED HER!"

Davis was called downstairs. The shabby, tight fitting blue serge suit that he wore showed that his body was muscular and stout if small. His coarse black hair was awry over his low, receding forehead. His little dark eyes looked with troubled inquiry. It was a monkey face. The eyes were closely set, and the bridge of the little sharp nose was sunken between them, and the face widened into heavy jaws, with a sparse black mustache failing to hide a lowering, thick lip. Mouth.

"You must tell me the truth. You cannot hide anything any more. I must know the truth," said the lawyer, "Capuzzo, you know that you killed that woman."

"I did not," he said, and he scowled. "I did not. I am not the man. I never knew her."

"You have sat in court. You have seen them put in evidence the pawn tickets for dress suit cases that belong to her. For rings that belonged to her. And those pawn tickets were in your pockets."

"They lie about those things being her things. Those woman's clothes I found one day. I found them in a bundle at the railroad station at Johnstown—four years ago."

"And the pawn tickets for the rings?"

"I found them too. I found them at Third Street and Seventh Avenue."

"Now, wouldn't it make a better story to say that some friend gave you the tickets—some friend that has gone to Europe? Wouldn't that make a better story?"

The man saw the trap. He grinned.

"No, I better tell the truth. If I say about the man, they ask me his name; they ask me like of him. I better say the truth. I found them."

Then the man rambled on, telling how he had never lived in the house in West Twenty-second street where the woman's dead body was found, denying with glaring eyes that the necktie that was found around her neck had ever been his property.

"Capuzzo," said Lawyer Hansen, "you say you found those pawn tickets in Seventh Avenue—in a crowded street?"

"Yes," the man was now at the end of explanations. He was looking at the lawyer eagerly and could read no message of encouragement in his eyes.

"Those tickets are not soiled. They are clean. They would have been dirty if they were lying in the street."

Capuzzo waved his hands and offered no explanation.

"Capuzzo, those clothes—woman's clothes—that you said you found four years ago and have kept ever since—do you know that the tags on those

JAPAN'S NEW YEAR'S CAKE.

Lasts a Year and Supposed to Bring Good Luck.

Important in the celebration of New Year's in Japan is the making of the New Year's cake, which every family must have if good luck is to follow it during the coming year.

This cake is made of a peculiar variety of rice, boiled and pounded in a great wooden mortar until it is of the consistency of dough. Although the pure white dough is often colored yellow or pink, the shape of the cake is always the same—that of the sacred mirror, one of the three sacred symbols of the Shinto faith. A piece of this cake, writes Clara W. Kaji in Leslie's Weekly, is offered to the Shinto deities because it is of the shape of the sacred mirror which wooed the sun goddess to come out of the cave where she had hidden herself in wrath and thus saved the land from total darkness. Each member of the family takes a hand in the manufacture of the New Year's cake. Even the baby is carried out and his baby hand guided in lifting the heavy wooden mallet for a "good luck" blow.

Enough is made to last nearly the whole year through, and it occupies an important place in the daily menu.

The Universal Mother.

A woman who looked as if she had a commuted ticket in her hand bag kept a long line of customers waiting in an uptown bank one snowy morning recently. She was writing something and was in no hurry. She was not one of the fashionable "no hips" creatures, but was of such generous proportions that she could not be circumscribed. There was nothing to do but wait and wonder what her business was. The cashier himself was in doubt, but waited politely to see.

"There, young man," she announced triumphantly to the cashier after putting her pencil in her mouth for the fiftieth time—"there is a prescription that has been in our family for fifty years. It will knock that cold of yours endwise. Hustle right out and get it filled and be sure and soak your feet in hot mustard water tonight. Don't let your cold run on."

The smiles that went round were kindly ones, it seemed so good to meet a "universal mother," ready to coddle any human being she thought needed her ministrations.

Your Habitual Expression.

What kind of an expression do you wear habitually?

Is it sour, morose, repellent? Do people look happier when you approach them or do they shrink from you?

It makes all the difference in the world with your prospects for success in either society or business what sort of an expression you wear.

The candidate for success should learn the power of a smile not only because it wins friends, but because its power over one's life is immeasurable.

The effort to be always kind, considerate and gentle, no matter what may be rankling in the heart, has a great influence in transforming life.

No, Not Forgotten.

Mother—Willie, I hope you didn't forget to say "Thank you" at the party.

Willie—No; I remembered all right, out I didn't do it, 'cause none of the ice cream was chocolate.

The Perfect Man.

Lord Rosebery, speaking at Edinburgh, said that the United States was trying an amalgamation of all the races of the world. Would the result be, he asked, the production of the perfect man of the future or would the result be a perfect new type hitherto unknown to anthropologists? That would be a subject for study and interest to the older races of the globe.

The value of silence is demonstrated by the fact that the man who says nothing doesn't have to take it back.—Philadelphia Record.

FARM ORCHARD AND GARDEN BY F. E. TRIGG REGISTER ROCKFORD, ILL. CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED

Now and then a ration of chopped-onions should be fed in the warm mash which is given to the flock of hens in the morning.

Only those are essentially menial who are degraded in their own eyes by doing work that is generally regarded as menial.

That father has discerned much of the philosophy of the proper raising of his boys who does not think it beneath his dignity to slide down hill with them.

Where tuberculosis is found in well developed stages in a drove of hogs it is quite likely to be found also in the cattle which they follow, provided that they run in the same yards.

With the Asiatic breeds the March hatched chickens are the ones that make the fall layers, while with the smaller types the chicks may be hatched in April or even as late as May.

We have never been quite able to understand the economic philosophy of the good women who will spend an hour darning up holes in one old sock that can be bought at two for a quarter.

The utility of the dairy cow is quite usually in an inverse ratio to her general looks and appearance. The skinniest, cat hammed individual is quite likely to make a good showing at the fair.

A pedigree should be accepted as hardly more than presumptive evidence that a sire is good. A knowledge of his progeny is required to give him unquestioned standing as a breeding animal.

As a rule, the countryman is more careful to blanket his horse on coming to town than is the city chap who takes a drive into the country. Failure to do so on the part of either is bad horse management.

In ventilating the barn or henhouse it is well to remember that impure air is always the heavier and will be found at or near the floor. On this account the ventilator shaft should extend to within a foot of the floor.

Large quantities of artificial ice are used in many of the cities of the country, and its manufacture is somewhat interesting. First the water to be made into ice is boiled and allowed to settle, distilled and bottled again and run through filters.

If any renders of these notes are in doubt about the wisdom of purchasing stock foods of this or that brand, pretty reliable information on the subject can be secured at little or no cost by making inquiry of the specialists in charge of this line of investigation at their experiment station.

The irrigated area now under cultivation in this country is 11,000,000 acres, while the crops grown thereon during the year 1907 were worth not less than $175,000,000. Next year, if prices received for products remain the same, it is estimated that the products of the irrigated area of the country will be worth $250,000,000.

The model home maker should be able to cook well, sew as much as may be necessary and be intelligent enough to be the companion and adviser of her husband. If in addition to these requirements she can play the piano, do fancy work or paint, why, so much the better. If, on the other hand, she is proficient in these last and can make a good loaf of bread or cook a piece of meat, she is very poorly equipped for her home duties.

Hens, but not the calves, may be profitably allowed the run of the orchard. Experiments conducted last year in the experiment station of Cornell university, New York, seemed to demonstrate quite conclusively that the laying of the orchard was worth more in the killing of injurious insects than all the spraying solutions that were applied. This seems to give emphasis to a claim that is frequently made to the effect that there is no more appropriate combination than the orchard and poultry business.

Iowa, renowned the country over as a premier agricultural state, has broken all records the past year in the matter of the combined value of her agricultural and live stock production, the grand total aggregating a trifle over $1,000,000,000. Technically Iowa is not known as a gold producing state, yet the value of the products directly traceable to the stirring of her soil amounts to more than the value of the output of all the gold mines on the American continent. There are a number of states that are but a short distance behind Iowa in the measure of credit which they merit for adding to the enormous wealth of the country.

EXPENSIVE AFFLUENCE.

We can never help feeling a profound sympathy for that family of children—nd there are altogether too many of them—who at the expense of education and cultivating and refining influences are put in a treadmill of toil in early years and kept there simply to gratify the ambition of wholly selfish or selfishly unselfish parents to accumulate a big wad of money. In the latter case perhaps there may be a purpose to reward the labor of these children with a good sum of money or a fair apiece when the old folks pass away, but even under these circumstances affluence and a fat bank account would seem to be purchased at too great a price. We have known instances where children reared under these circumstances were barely able to write, let alone to check on their names when signed to checks on their bank accounts and who, touching all of the better and nobler aspects of living, were utter strangers and barbarians. The wrong thus done is doubly great, because when children arrive at an age to appreciate the injustice that has been done them it is in all too many cases too late to remedy the difficulty. Every American child is by birthright entitled to the privileges of at least an elementary education and those broadening influences that usually accompany it. Such an education, giving him an interest return of intelligence and usefulness as a factor in society, will be more highly prized than bushels of money cursed with a gilded ignorance.

WILL PAY TO TAKE CARE OF IT.

A buyer of fruit for a leading Chicago commission house stated to the writer in a recent conversation that in his opinion it would pay the owner of every thrifty and promising apple orchard to take the best possible care of it, as in all too many cases orchards now in bearing were being neglected shamefully, with the result that in the near future they cannot be counted on to furnish a very considerable portion of the apple supply of the country. Coupled with this fact should also be taken into account the further fact that the demand for apples both for home consumption and for export purposes is constantly increasing. The care given the orchard should include not only a systematic and careful spraying with a view to guarding the most perfect fruit, but that pruning adapted to conditions which may exist which will keep the trees in the thickest and best condition for bearing. If the orchard is worth taking care of at all, it should be given the best care possible. If it is not, one would probably be dollars ahead in the long run to cut the trees down and devote the land to the culture of some other crop.

A COLD STORAGE PLANT.

The unusually high prices which have prevailed for apples the past few months have suggested to many an orchardist the question of erecting a private cold storage plant. To such the experiment of a New York orchardist along this line will be of interest. His cold storage plant was erected in 1903 at a cost of a trifle over $2,000 and has a capacity of 700 barrels in the storage rooms proper, while an insulated or frost proof room above the cold storage room accommodates 300 barrels. From apples stored in the year 1904 he realized profits of $500 above what he would have been compelled to sell when the fruit was picked. In 1905, with the plant only partly full, he made similar profits of $1,000, while in 1906 he realized between $2,500 and $3,000 on pears and apples which he held in storage. It is doubtful if the same cold storage plant would cost from 25 to 30 per cent more to build today, but this would not make the erection of it impractical in a neighborhood in which sufficient apples were grown to fill it.

This Is Worth Reading.

Leo F. Zelinski, of 68 Gibson St., Buffalo, N. Y., says: "I cured the most annoying cold sore I ever had, with Bucklen's Arnica Salve. I applied this salve once a day for two days, when every trace of the sore was gone." Heals all sores. Sold under guarantee at Jackson Drug store, 25c.

NEEDS RE-ENFORCING.

The chief defect with immature corn that is light in weight and loose on the cob, the condition of much that has been grown in northern portions of the corn belt season this year, is that it is almost entirely lacking in protein as well as fat forming elements. The larger per cent of the protein in a kernel of corn is stored in the germ end of the kernel, and in such loose, light corn this portion of the kernel seems to be the last to fill. For the reasons mentioned, if such corn has to be fed, it should be re-enforced with other feeds which will furnish this protein element, such as oil and cottonseed meal, bran, oats or clover hay. Fed by itself, this chaffy corn is a pretty slim diet and hardly recompenses an animal for the energy expended in masticating and digesting it.

Medicine That Is Medicine.

"I have suffered a good deal with malaria and stomach complaints but I have now found a remedy that keeps me well, and that remedy is Electric Bitters. A medicine that is medicine for stomach and liver troubles, and for run down conditions," says W. C. Kiestler, of Halliday, Ark. Electric Bitters purify and enrich the blood, tone up the nerves, and impart vigor and energy to the weak. Your money will be refunded if it fails to help you 50c at Jackson Drug store.

Talbot county, Md., claims the distinction of having a longer coast line than any other county in the world, with the exception of one in Scotland.

To calculate the rate of flow of an artesian well a simple plan is to lower a bottle of aniline fluid to a depth of, say, 500 feet and then electrically explode a cap to burst the bottle. The time required for the fluid to appear at the surface gives an accurate gauge as to the velocity of flow.

Marked For Death.

"Three years ago I was marked for death. A grave-yard cough was tearing my lungs to pieces. Doctors failed to help me, and hope had fled, when my husband got Dr. King's New Discovery," says Mrs. A. C. Williams, of Bac, Ky. "The first dose helped me and improvement kept on until I had gained 55 pounds in weight and my health was fully restored." This medicine holds the world's healing record for coughs and colds and lung and throat diseases. It prevents pneumonia. Sold under guarantee at the Jackson Drug store, 50c and $1.00. GET RICH QUICK.

Schemes of this class have again come to grief along with the gullible investors, causing serious loss to innocent business concerns, as is always the case of panics in Wall St.

While this last lesson is yet fresh in mind, it is an opportune moment to consider causes and means to avoid like trouble in the future.

Direct your attention to that greatest of all Newspapers the Cincinnati Enquirer. From its columns one can readily detect the trend of currency, its lodging places, by whom handled, uses made of it, and final results.

Again you read quotations of Bonds, Stocks, and Securities of every nature, fixing Status of all business from the retailer, to United States Government.

Also Current News, facts and reliable data covering the entire world; all sufficiently explicit to enable thinking people to avoid snags and follow the channel of success.

Its extra size and high price, is the secret of its ability to discover, obtain, print and serve its patrons with all the news, and cater to wants of people in every calling of life.

The Weekly Enquirer for the year 1908 has greatly increased its Clubbing offers which now include the best select and popular publications of the day at prices slightly over half the regular Subscription rates.

Do not overlook the fact that the year 1908 promises to excel in prosperity any of the past, and that the Enquirer printed at Cincinnati, Ohio, is one of the most reliable sources of information.
